Charges pending in sour gas deaths

By Carol Dietrich
Criminal charges may be launched against Dome Petroleum by the Attorney General's Department in connection with the deaths of two sour gas plant workers near Lodgepole in November.

After a lengthy investigation, the provincial department of Occupational Health and Safety announced last week its recommendation to prosecute Dome.

"Essentially we will discuss with the Attorney General's Department the possible legal actions," said Ellen Ticoll, Occupational Health and Safety public affairs officer.

"They have expertise in that area and will decide whether or not to prosecute."

Ticoll couldn't be specific about the charges or possible violations but said, "Obviously we think there are some grounds for our actions."

It will take four to eight weeks to supply the Attorney General's Department with the information and finish the necessary paper work, said Ticoll.

"And then we'll find out if charges will be laid."

Dome Petroleum has no comment on the matter, said Dave Annesley, manager of information and news services.

"We have no idea what's being proposed for what the recommendations are," he added.

Dome employees 27-year-old Wesley Carl Kelly of Drayton Valley and 22-year-old Michael Daniel McLaughlin of Bluffton were killed Nov. 22 by sour gas while doing routine maintenance at a well site 50 kilometres (31 mi.) west of Lodgepole.

Sports banquet nets camp $9,000 plus

With little doubt, Bill Farrell was among the most nervous people at the Elks Hall Monday night.

The head organizer and main spokesman of the first-ever scout/guide sport banquet paced almost non-stop as he, and about a dozen others, awaited the arrival of the professional sportsmen they'd arranged to speak to the nearly sold out crowd.

As the 6 p.m. start approached and then passed, with still no sign of the star-lane Bretton's puntual arm wrestling champion Rod Barrett! Farrell paced even more, adding a few gray hairs to his crop of brown.

But less than an hour later they started to roll in — first Trappers' Steve Smith, then 'Ironman' Gary Unger and Cowboy Bill Flett. Still later, Neil Lumsden, Eric Upton, and Wes Montgomery. The only no-shows were CFRN's Tiger Goldstick and Oiler Dave Hunter, the latter confined to a mandatory practice by head coach Glen Sather.

Needless to say, the show was a hit for the local scout and guide organization, raising some $9,000 for their camp facility near Carnwood through ticket sales and raffles.

"It was excellent. It was probably one of the most exciting events in Drayton Valley as far as sports goes," a relieved Farrell sighed later.

"We (organizers) are overwhelmed at the support we've received and that's putting it mildly."

"What I could see happening (before) was me having to walk out there and say, 'I'm sorry, but due to unforeseen circumstances, half our head table are unable to make it, so you'll be having dinner with Bill Farrell this evening,' the RCMP constable deadpanned.

Organizers had expected to raise some $4,500 from the banquet but now hope to clear some $7,000. About 280 adults and children attended the event.

Unpaid parking fines will head for court — Olsen

By Frank Ryan

Unpaid parking tickets are a 'major' concern in Drayton Valley.

A parking report to town council last week showed that 183 tickets had been issued between Jan. 1 and March 4 and of these, 120 were paid within the required time. After 14 days a reminder letter was sent to 63 ticket holders and only 12 responded with payment.

"People will be summoned. Our intention is that they will eventually go to court," Councillor Howard Olsen says.

Olsen says he received four letters and numerous phone calls from people who have received either the $15 parking or $25 lane tickets.

"People are frustrated. They're just talking because they are mad," he added.

Council, who are taking most of the heat over the parking tickets, say they were forced into the present situation by the merchants who wanted some controls, but couldn't enforce them. So, they turned to the town.

"If we back off now we will lose everything we started out to do," Olsen remarked.

Olsen says he sees a slow down in the number of complaints. He claims that many of those who were ticketed were repeaters just fighting the system.

"I'm sure we will ride out the storm," the veteran councillor says.

Olsen referred to the installation of lights at the corner of 50th Street and 52nd Avenue two years ago. "We had letters on that but it wasn't

Petition for bus started

By Carol Dietrich
Laura Richard is concerned. In fact, she's so concerned she is starting a petition.

As a mother, she wants to see that her eight-year-old son gets to and from school safely. Richard lives in Greenwood Trailer Court and would like to see bus service for town students.

Her son goes to Eldorado school, about three-quarters of a mile from the trailer court.

"As the weather got colder, he accepted rides from strangers, because he dreaded the freezing weather more than he feared the strangers."

"It's his safety I'm worried about, she said. She warns him not to accept rides, she said. "But I can't get through to him."

"He'll say 'Oh mom, if someone grabbed me, I could get away.'"

The suggestion of a car pool has come up, but Richard, like others, does not have access to a car for that purpose.

"We're not asking for a bus to be given to us free of charge," she said.

"I would rather pay the price for a bus pass, than pay with my son's life to open a few eyes about this much-needed service."

Richard has placed petitions on the bulletin board at the entrance of the Derrick Mall and on the bulletin board in the IGA. She'll be going door-to-door at the Greenwood Trailer Court seeking signatures as well.

She has spoken to Cecil Dawkins, Parkland County school board trustee, about the possibility of presenting the petition at a school board meeting.

"School board policy says that children must be 1 1/2 miles from school to get bus service," Dawkins said.

"The difficulty I can see for small children from the Greenwood Trailer Court is that there is no sidewalk from there to Ben's Meats."

"Whichever way they go they face industrial hazards. It seems to me that the children should not be exposed to these risks," he said.

"The solution may be some transportation. If there is some difficulty, the parents need to get together, organize themselves and come to the board."

"Every parent group has the right to appeal to the board," Dawkins added.

He said he would be willing to sit down with a parent group to discuss the situation.

"I'll explain the board's policies and the parents' rights."

Crisis line delayed, one organizer leaves

Though the offer for crisis line office space still stands, the Drayton Valley Shelter Association has yet to have the actual lease in its possession.

Originally we hoped to have it by March 8, said association member Daryl LaVallee.

"But it shouldn't be a problem." They ran into some trouble with the complexities of the lease, she said.

"We're looking towards March 21 as the day for signing it."

More volunteers are needed for the line, she added. "We have seven or eight people committed."

"But we need a lot more." We have a lot of tentative people, LaVallee said, and because the first orientation is in mid-April, we still have time.

The movement to get a four-family, 16-bed crisis shelter in Drayton Valley began about seven months ago.

"We've gotten to our second step — office space for the crisis line."

"Public awareness and support for the shelter was step one."

Remaining steps include crisis line and volunteer assessment, compiling of statistics, raising funds for the shelter, workshops, and downpayment on and renovations to a shelter building.

The provincial government will pay 80 per cent of the shelter's yearly costs, with a $10,000 per bed limit.

"The shelter association would have to raise about $30,000 a year from the community."

Because the shelter would serve such a large area, we could approach a lot of people, she said.

"We have begun to get some community support for the crisis line."

LaVallee, one of the major forces behind the local shelter association, and her family will be returning to Edmonton the beginning of April. But she will remain active with the association.

"I can attend related workshops in Edmonton and feed the information to members here," she said.

"Every two weeks I'll be out here."

long before people accepted the change," he says. Due to the new parking policy, Olsen sees some changes already taking place in the downtown core.

"The parking lots are being used more. There was a time when the parking lot behind the curling rink was nearly empty. Now it's being utilized," Olsen says.

While the town is enforcing the new parking policy, Olsen will listen if there's a better way.

Helicopter down near Violet Grove

A Canadian Forces helicopter made an emergency landing just southwest of Violet Grove Friday after an onboard fuel container began leaking.

The CH 147 Chinook helicopter from Canadian Forces Base Edmonton was forced to land just after 10 a.m. in a field owned by Clifford Whitelock, about 12 kilometres southwest of Drayton Valley.

The helicopter was enroute to pick up Canadian Forces personnel involved in survival training west of Calgary. Seven people were on board the aircraft which was grounded for about two hours. It took off without incident.

No injuries were reported.

According to the helicopter's pilot, a rubber fuel tank used to store additional fuel developed a leak during flight and necessitated a landing.

"The reason we landed was because of the electrical equipment (onboard) and any kind of spark could've caused a fire," Capt. Tim Manley said.

No injuries were reported when a CFB helicopter made an emergency landing near Violet Grove.

Fuel from the 500-gallon container was pumped into the helicopter's main tanks after landing.

A service road had to be plowed by Whitelock so a water truck operated by Les Gamblin of L&M Trucking could have access to the helicopter. Gamblin, a Drayton Valley resident, assisted personnel in clean-up operations and removing the rubber tank from the site.

"The people around here have just been super," Manley said. "They plowed a road so we could get the water truck in here and flush out the fuel."

"They were really helpful."

Evaluation team at junior high school

By Carol Dietrich

A number of strangers were sitting in on classes in H.W. Pickup school last week, conducting interviews and asking questions.

All with a definite purpose in mind.

The group was a Department of Education evaluating team.

Parkland County asked the team to come out and assess the school's performance.

"This is a service the department offers," said team chairman Wayne Blair.

"We're looking at general management, quality of instruction and zeroing in on certain program areas."

Those areas include science, mathematics, industrial arts, the library, special education, counselling and computer literacy.

"Every classroom teacher is observed at least once, maybe twice," he said.

"(During the four-day evaluation) we also interview randomly-selected parents and talk to the student council."

Parents were very co-operative about coming in, Blair added.

"A written report will be done the end of May and represented to the local school board."

"It will be a public document and everyone will have access to it."

The report will include commendations as well as suggestions for improvement.

Depending on the nature of improvement, some of the recommendations will be mandatory while others will be at the school board's discretion.

"For example, if the school is not following the curriculum, then it is the responsibility of the principal and the superintendent to implement the changes," he said.

"Generally we find a lot of good things at the schools we go to."

"The odd time we find things like a safety problem or (friction) between staff and principal," Blair said.

"But generally we don't find serious problems."

After the evaluation report is complete, we may come back in six months to see if the mandatory changes have been made.

The evaluations are not done very frequently, he said. "The last time H.W. Pickup was done was 18 years ago."

Other Parkland County schools being evaluated this year are Seba Beach school, Meridian school and Mirror Lake school.

Opinions

Major problems plague parking policy

A lot of people are unhappy with the parking policy in Drayton Valley. Local and out-of-towners have been receiving $15 tickets for over-staying their two-hour parking time while others have been hit with $25 tickets for parking in lanes.

The town has received a number of letters from irate shoppers who have found a $15 or $25 ticket on their windshield. And, most of those letter writers are saying they won't come back.

The complaint amongst Drayton Valley residents who have been hit in the pocket book seems to be that not everyone who is violating the rules is being ticketed.

To that, Drayton Valley town manager Manny Doel explains that not every drunk driver is caught.

But don't think for a minute that the town of Drayton Valley is trying to drive business out of town.

All the flak town council is taking on this parking issue was brought on the council by the merchants. They forced council into doing something. Employees were plugging up the area in front of their own shops, and the employer found he couldn't control it. So they went to the town.

Illegal parking in lanes is a procedure that must be maintained due to fire regulations.

If there are problems, it's the lack of signs.

A second problem would be the hours the parking is in effect. And a third concern would be the areas where the tickets are handed out.

People would likely accept the parking policy if they were satisfied that every area in the downtown core was being patrolled.

Fire chief had safety message for parents

Babysitting is a serious business. And hiring a babysitter should be considered serious by the parents.

Last week we had the opportunity to attend a session of the Alberta Safety Council's babysitter safety course. Thirty-five youngsters between 11 and 15 years-of-age are taking the six-week course.

The speaker for this session was Drayton Valley fire chief Sheldon Fuson. He talked about fire safety as it relates to the babysitter.

It was an excellent presentation. It was a presentation that parents should take.

Fuson told the students about fire, how to recognize it and how to put it out. He also told them of their responsibilities.

But, one of the important areas he touched on was escape routes in homes. Every home is to have two outs. The babysitters were told that when they are hired, to ask what the escape routes are in the home.

Editor's Notes

If a babysitter asked that, how many people shrug their shoulders? Likely most of us. But it's important. Brochures on two outs are available from the Drayton Valley fire chief.

The fire chief also told the babysitters to check for a fire extinguisher. Is this item available in your home?

He also asked the 35 students as to how many of their homes had the mandatory fire alarms. Four raised their hands.

Another area that Fuson touched on was the furnace. He cautioned them not to fool with a furnace. How many people, young and old, fool with the furnace?

Fuson also said, "In my eyes, fire safety is one of the most important things that babysitters should know."

It's also very important for the hiring parent to be conscious of fire safety.

I'm sure the RCMP and county police have lots of things to do, but it would be nice to see vehicles use their signal lights more.

Also missing on many vehicles are headlights. But, with all the gravel roads in the area it's next to impossible to control.

If you were thinking of getting married this summer, or were planning a wedding for a son or daughter, it might be too late. At least for pictures.

Ray Johnson at Johnson Photographers in Drayton Valley reports he is almost booked solid.

What does the future hold for recreation?

By Ed Haykowski
West End Co-ordinator
Parks & Recreation
County of Parkland

The quest for leisure and recreation experiences has witnessed a boom in the ways and means we provide for such activities. However, it was not so long ago and indeed, the concept exists today, that free time was restricted to weekends and after the eight hours on the job. Computerization, automation and the changing nature of jobs and lifestyles have revolutionized the way society now utilizes its recreation and leisure time. No longer can the recreation practitioner restrict himself to the narrow perspective but, rather, he must consider all factors if he is to optimize the recreation opportunities for the public.

What value do we place on recreation and leisure opportunities? What are we willing to pay and what does the future hold in light of our economic recession?

Before these other questions can be addressed it may be appropriate to examine how attitudes towards recreation and leisure have evolved. The philosophy of free time to relax, enjoy, compete and experience activities that normally we wouldn't have the opportunity to do so, goes back thousands of years. It is not unique to the 20th century. Indeed, biblical passages allude to the need to rest and recuperate from our daily toils. In Ecclesiastes we read the following: "To everything there is a season and time for every purpose under heaven... a time to be born... a time to die... a time to plant, a time to reap... a time to laugh... a time to dance!" It seems clear that man can and should temper our daily toils with enjoyable and fulfilling experiences.

The Greeks and Romans refined our concepts and definitions of free time, although some of their so-called "recreation practices" might be termed dubious at best. The onset of the Industrial Revolution saw another marked change in our attitude towards leisure and recreation time. It was at this period in history that the Protestant work ethic became firmly entrenched and with us to this very day. Our own preferences about recreation and leisure have also evolved, albeit more cautiously, where today the recreation and leisure industry has become big business.

How does this relate to the residents of the county of Parkland? In 1981 the provincial department of Recreation and Parks undertook a major opinion survey that examined the leisure practices of Albertans. Of note in the study was that of the 20 top recreation activities, eight were of the type that required assistance by a local or regional government in order to implement. They included picnicking, camping spectator sports, skating and swimming. Who can best provide access to such pursuits at a price affordable by most. The answer plain and simple is governments, your taxes and mine. People and society demand such service. Our expectations today are higher than 20 years ago and we have more time and money available.

In terms of placing value on recreation and leisure opportunities, we have gotten to the point where every expenditure or undertaking demands a monetary figure. And maybe in today's economic climate this is justified. But what value can be placed on pleasure, socializing, feeling good, physical fitness or quality of life? How do we measure the value of expenditures made in behalf of kids, programs and sports activities?

It's ironic that intangibles like recreation and leisure when we have them, we seem to question increasing expenditures towards their pursuit but when they are taken away, a general outcry can be heard.

The provision of recreation and leisure opportunities remains first and foremost a service to the public. As such it needs to value, to cater to the demands of its client. A prime example in the Drayton Valley area is the new Park Valley pool where the whole community got together to see the project through. The need for the pool was established and action was taken.

Social forecasters predict an even more dramatic shift in work patterns and leisure time availability. The need for trained professionals to provide appropriate services is therefore assured and recreation personnel will be front and centre in this endeavor.

It is my belief as a recreation practitioner that I have a responsibility to foster the feeling that participation in recreation and leisure pursuits is an important and viable part in the overall personal development of each and every person. Even in times of economic downturn recreation can serve as the balm of the unemployed, those experiencing personal crises and others who individually and collectively are encountering difficult times. Work and leisure pursuits have often been portrayed as being antithetical to one another. In reality they are not entirely mutually exclusive and when combined can lead to tremendous personal growth.

Children face dangerous walk to school

Dear Editor,

At the beginning of the school year a number of the parents of small school age children in Greenwood Trailer Park were very concerned about the long distance that their children had to travel to and from school.

I contacted the owner of the County of Parkland bus service and was informed that there was not enough public outcry for a town bus service. I guess we're just not crying out to the right people, or not crying loud enough.

My own son is a Grade 2 student at Eldorado Elementary School. During the past winter he was brought home by the RCMP due to the fact that someone had tried to lure him into a pickup. But, as the weather got colder, he did accept rides home from strangers because he dreaded the freezing weather more than he feared the strangers.

Sure, he got home alright, but how many other children aren't as fortunate?

Prior to living in Drayton Valley I lived in Vegreville and before that in Valleyview. How many people are aware of the tragedies which recently took place in these two quiet little communities?

A police officer was killed in Vegreville, not a block away from where I lived. Two adults, murdered by teenage children in Valleyview. The victims in both cases were adults and they were not safe. Both these small towns have bus services for town students.

They are concerned for their children's safety! No one wants to believe that something like that could happen in their quiet little town, but, they're out there; the child molestors, kidnappers and murderers.

Every year thousands of small children disappear and in most instances on their way to or from school.

The schools have implemented a number of safety awareness programs for the children. But, like children everywhere, they don't believe these things could happen here, or to them.

I ask you, THE PARENTS. Do you care about the safety of your children? If so, what does it take to open your eyes to this growing problem?

We are asking you, the readers, if you would kindly forward us information concerning the

We pay our taxes and our school taxes. We are not asking for a bus to be given to us free of charge. But, I would rather pay the price for a bus pass than pay with my son's life to open a few eyes about this much needed service.

If you are as concerned as I am, maybe, if we scream long enough and loud enough, someone will finally hear us, when we ask: "Where's the bus?"

If you are interested in signing a petition to present to the school board, please call me at 542-7992 or contact No. 10, Greenwood Trailer Park.

Reader pleased with paper

Dear Editor,

I was pleased to see a variety of events suitable for outings for the family in the Feb. 27 edition of The Western Review.

The front page pictured a grandmother out cross country skiing with her granddaughters. The Chamber of Commerce first annual carnival was coming soon, merchants were presenting 'Jumbo' at the theatre, and the figure skating club would present their annual afternoon and evening performances.

This issue also contained articles pertaining to parent involvement in school curriculum and scholarship fund plans.

Some other places which come to mind where families would be most welcome are churches, bowling alley, seniors' lodge, ski hill, swimming pool, etc.

A 'tip of the hat' and thank you to all individuals, businesses and groups who work for and promote family outings. May Drayton Valley be known as a family town.

Sincerely,
Florence Trueman

High school auto, welding and building courses offered

By Carol Dietrich

For the last two years, Frank Maddock High School students having no intention of pursuing post-secondary education have had the opportunity to enroll in a diversified shop program.

Automotives, welding and building construction are available, each at 12, 22 and 32 levels.

Instructors Dennis Harris, Wayne Donner and Steve Hall teach classes with a limit of 20 in each.

In the welding program, students are introduced to oxy-acetylene and are welding, and gain more experience through projects, said Hall.

"They do customer work, like patio decks, utility trailers and cattle loaders."

And completion of Welding 32 is equivalent to the first year of a welding apprenticeship.

"It makes the kids very employable," he said. Theory and a basic introduction to the engine, transmission and brakes begin the automotives program.

Fire calls increase

The Drayton Valley Fire Department answered 108 alarms last year which was 27 more than in 1983.

Calls were up in Drayton Valley by 66 per cent while county calls only increased four per cent.

Fire chief Sheldon Fuson says one of the reasons behind the increased calls in Drayton Valley was the opening of the new hospital.

Overall, Fuson said "it was a normal year."

Property loss due to fire the past year was $359,819 in the county, and only $10,774 in Drayton Valley. The overall figure of $370,593 is down drastically from 1983 when the property loss was at $671,764.

Fuson, who has been the fire chief in Drayton Valley for seven years, is very proud of the fact that no fire-related deaths or injuries resulted in the town or county during the past year.

"We have some old scrap engines that the kids take apart."

In Automotives 22, the students do brake jobs and rebuild carburetors and in 32 they rebuild engines.

"They can virtually rebuild anything," he said. "The equipment is fabulous."

"The automotives lab has no trouble getting customer work."

"They have to turn some away," Hall added.

"But we're in no way, other than price, competitive with mechanic shops. With students it takes more time to do jobs."

As is the case with welding, three automotives courses can eliminate the first year of a mechanics apprenticeship.

The building construction program focuses on tool operation and maintenance, blueprint reading and construction of projects.

"All of the programs include safety."

In two years, the shop programs have completed a number of projects for the high school itself.

"We've built railings, ladders, Christmas tree stands, volleyball poles, and now we're working on referee stands," he said.

The program is open to male and female students and presently there are two girls in automotives, one in welding and a number in building construction.

"The shop program has worked out very well," Hall said.

"The students are doing well. We've got some very active and keen students."

"In the past, some of them may have dropped out of school."

MOMS AND DADS AND KIDS AND DRUGS AND BOOZE.

The side effects of adolescence.

Our kids are going through changes, experimentation, finding out what they are, who they are and where they're going.

They're meeting new people, enjoying new experiences, spreading their wings. They're testing their own abilities and skills. In short, they're preparing themselves for life and for independence.

But in the midst of all this excitement, we stand as parents. And we must understand not only the positive side effects this kind of growing brings, but also the frustrations and the dangers.

We bring up our kids knowing the temptations and the dangers to which they can be particularly vulnerable.

Drugs and alcohol immediately come to mind. We live in a society in which examples of their use are encountered daily in the media, examples which very rarely involve direct consequences. Added to this are the stories, the myths and the challenges that come from friends and schoolmates.

What do we do? Do we make prisoners of our children to protect them? Do we interrogate them daily about their activities and their friends?

The answers to these questions may appear easy. However, supervision is sometimes interpreted as imprisonment, and an interest in the lives and activities of teens as interrogation. It's difficult to strike the right balance. What is important is that we have some knowledge and understanding of our children and their world. We cannot ignore the problems they encounter and hope for the best.

Stay close, be involved. And remember, we can still be the closest and strongest influence in the lives of our kids.

Metric conversion process voluntary - Cote

Regulations requiring the mandatory use of metric measurement alone will be revoked and will be replaced by new provisions which will permit the use of metric units only, or the use of imperial units along with metric units in three principal sectors of retail trade, it was announced by Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Michel Cote.

The new provisions, which will apply in the sectors of gasoline and diesel fuels, will permit consumers who are unfamiliar with the metric system to continue to refer to imperial measure while purchasing products in these areas.

Cote noted the process of metric conversion has been voluntary, and has been undertaken with the co-operation of industry in more than 100 sectors of the economy. However, in the three retail sectors, regulations were introduced under the Weights and Measures Act which required the mandatory use of metric only.

"Canadians feel, and we agree, that compulsory metric is a heavy-handed and insensitive approach," the minister said. "As a government, we favor metric conversion."

Farmer's market starts another season

The Evergreen Farmers' Market reopens today (Wednesday).

People who have been missing the selection of baking, handicrafts, jams, sewing, house plants, fresh produce and ornaments can go to the Drayton Valley Elks Hall and indulge themselves once again.

Open 10 months of the year, the farmer's market is held every Wednesday from noon to 3 p.m.

There are 30 tables from which people can sell their goods.

"I've got an average of 22 regulars, so there's not too much room for new sellers," said market manager Lynn Merschel.

People wanting to sell, who haven't contacted her yet, are out of luck for a while. "I'm booked up for the next three weeks."

"Tables are rented on a first come, first served basis," she added.

"The majority of sellers are from this area."

For the most part goods are sold by individuals, but youth groups, organizations raising money, and church groups have rented tables.

Interest in the market is good when it first opens, she said. "And then there is a bit of a slack period until the bedding plants come in."

Activity is good when fresh fruit is available, Merschel added.

There are more than 100 farmers' markets in

Agency unsuccessful

Council wants action on unpaid bills

Town council in Drayton Valley are concerned over unpaid accounts that are being turned over to a collection agency.

The administration recommended to council last Thursday that $765 in unpaid accounts be written off. The accounts in question included one for a mobile home license and eight water/sewer bills. The mobile home license bill was $282 with the largest water/sewer bill being $38.

Councillor Tom McGee said he was against writing the bills off. "I feel they can be collected. If we're paying a collection agency, they should be collected," he said.

Alberta. Other local ones include Wildwood, Evansburg, Bretton, and Warburg.

Because the majority of sellers are regulars, there isn't a lot of new items on offer, she said.

"I don't want the market to stagnate."

"You need to have variety."

A separate pre-Christmas market for non-regulars is a possibility for the future.

However, council were told that the collection agency hadn't had much success. The nine unpaid bills were sent to the collection agency in June and August of last year and no payment had been received.

Council didn't accept a collection agency answer that the people couldn't be reached when they learned one of the parties were still living in Drayton Valley and recently had applied for a position on one of the town's volunteer boards.

The councillors want to see a collection agency report.

We'll help you pay for the people you need to get your project off the ground, on stream, outdoors.

Alberta Manpower has created a new program to help create new jobs. In fact, the Environment Employment Program will help your group plan — and pay for — projects to better Alberta's outdoors.

The Nature of the Job

We'll help fund projects that improve the environment, providing they're community supported and don't duplicate existing services. Some good examples: planting trees, blazing nature trails, controlling erosion, improving fire beaches, reducing fire hazards, preserving wildlife habitat, or repainting the damage of a natural disaster.

Who Goes to Work?

Your group will be a non-profit organization, community association, municipality, Indian band or Metis settlement. The people you hire, once your project's approved, will be from the unemployed in your local area.

Because we want to see new jobs, we'll help that happen. We'll subsidize employers up to $200 for wages and up to another $125 for other costs — per worker, per week!

Lodgepole rink undefeated

Two big ends carried the Al Groulx foursome of Lodgepole to first place in the four-day Drayton Valley mixed bonspiel which ended Sunday afternoon.

Groulx scored five in the fourth end and added four more in the sixth for a 12-5 win over Vern Bartlett of Drayton Valley.

A last rock draw to the four foot earned Leg Hodgson a thrilling 3-2 win over Deb Collyer in an all Drayton Valley second event final.

And in the third event, Arnold Olson's foursome only needed seven ends to defeat Gordon Matlock 7-1.

If anyone was surprised with the eventual outcome, it was Al Groulx.

"I'm surprised. We didn't expect to go this far," Groulx said after his sixth straight win in capturing the closing season mixed spiel.

Groulx counted singles in the first two ends and Bartlett tied the score in the third. Groulx counted five in the fourth but Bartlett's crew made it close with three in the fifth. But the Lodgepole rink that also included third Linda Oscar, second

Ray Oscar and lead Louise Groulx put the game out of reach with four in the sixth.

The second event final between Hodgson and Collyer featured some excellent shotmaking throughout with Hodgson scoring one in the first. Collyer tied it in the fourth after two blank ends. Hodgson went up by one in the sixth only to have Collyer tie it again in the seventh.

When Hodgson went into the hack to throw his last rock, he was looking at two Collyer stones counting. He got a little help with a front guard rub that shot his rock into the four foot, just inches ahead of the Collyer stone. Sharing in the glory were third Sandy Sluchinski, second Ian Hutchinson and lead Susan Sawyer.

In his match to win the third event championship Olsen counted singles in the first three ends, added two more in the fifth and singles in the sixth and seventh. Matlock scored their only point in the fourth. Wife Donna and the Forrests, Judy and Jack, made up the winning foursome.

All that remains on the Drayton Valley curling scene are the club championships.

Tiggers hoping for hoop rematch

The Drayton Valley Tiggers will be looking to settle a couple of scores at the intermediate 'C' ladies' basketball provincials to be held this weekend at Stettler.

The Tiggers are hoping for a re-match with Stettler after losing out to them in last year's provincial final by a mere six points. Stettler also defeated the Tiggers in a tournament final last month.

Both the Tiggers and Stettler are in the 'A' pool at the three-day tournament along with Edmonton Titans, Calgary Hillhurst and Calgary Kennedy Oil Field. Four teams — Calgary 88's and Calgary Police along with Edmonton Queens and Runner's World — make up the 'B' pool.

The Tiggers play their first game this Friday night at 8:30 against Kennedy Oil Field.

They take to the floor at 10:30 a.m. against Hillhurst and meet host Stettler in a 1:30 p.m. game, followed by a 6 p.m. game against the Titans.

The top two teams in each pool meet in the playoffs Sunday. There is a chance the Tiggers and Stettler could meet twice during the provincials, which was the case a year ago.

At last year's provincial the Tiggers won the preliminary round robin game over Stettler by two points, only to lose the final. It was the same story at the Tiggers' tournament.

Parry Mohn, who has been handling the Tiggers' coaching reins, says it won't take much to get the girls pumped up for the game against Stettler.

Howatt wins gold

Daie Howatt of Drayton Valley captured the first place gold medal in the 25-metre freestyle swimming event at the Michener Games held in Red Deer last weekend.

Eyd Howatt took second in the 50-metre freestyle and Lee Davis was third in the 25-metre freestyle event.

The trio attend the Beehive in Drayton

Valley and the trip to the Michener Games was their first. Organizers in Drayton Valley hope to send a team to the Special Olympics Lethbridge in mid-June.

After Easter the Beehive are planning a floor hockey game at Spruce Grove.

Like swimming, floor hockey is a big part of the Special Olympics program.

Meeting Thursday

McDowell heads minor ball

The Drayton Valley Minor Baseball Association will operate this summer.

Just a year ago the association didn't know if they would operate due to a lack of personnel.

But that doesn't appear to be a problem this season.

Mickey McDowell, who worked with the beaver program last summer, has volunteered to serve as president of the minor ball association. Danny Thompson, who directed the minor ball activities, will remain active in other roles.

Ginny Kuzek will be back to handle equipment and uniforms and Gail Bartlett returns as statistician.

Susan Lee will be returning to handle the 10-and 11-year-old girls and Don Kallis will be the director for 12- and 13-year-old girls.

John Sullivan returns to handle mite boys with newcomer David Becker taking over the mosquito players.

Several other directors are still needed.

The association will hold another meeting tomorrow (Thursday), 7:30 p.m. in the Amoco Safety Hall. Anyone interested in working with the minor baseball program in Drayton Valley is welcome. Player registrations will also be taken at this meeting.

Thompson says he's not worried at this time about the apparent shortage of coaches. "Coaches come out of the woodwork. They just don't show up at the first meeting," he says.

McDowell says he decided to step forward because he wanted to see minor baseball go on town.

Besides offering a program for some 350 boys and girls this summer, Drayton Valley will be the site of the bantam 'A' boys provincial tournament in August.

A Level 1 theory clinic is set for April 12 in Drayton Valley followed by a baseball camp the weekend of Aug. 27/28 for beaver and mosquito age players. There's also a good possibility that a Level 1 coaches' clinic will be held the same weekend. Staff from the Alberta Baseball Association will run both the baseball camp and the coaches' clinic.

SPORTSBEAT

by Frank Ryan

All the best to the Drayton Valley Tigers who will be in Stettler this weekend for the intermediate 'C' ladies' basketball provincials.

The Tigers are hoping for a rematch in the final with Stettler. Last year Stettler won the provincial championship by a two-point margin over the Drayton Valley girls.

The Winnipeg Jets appear to be for real this season. And that has to be good news for coach Barry Long who played his minor hockey in Red Deer. One of the big additions to the Jets this season is Bentley product Perry Turnbull.

Division finals are underway in the Alberta Junior Hockey League with Fort Saskatchewan Traders and Sherwood Park Crusaders meeting in the north while Red Deer Rustlers and Calgary Spurs are going at it in the south.

If you're planning a sports event, we'd like to discourage a Monday happening. Our deadline for the paper is Monday afternoon, and if you have a function Monday night, it's impossible for The Western Review to give the coverage we'd like.

Drayton Valley recreation director Dennis Woolsey found himself on the 'hot seat' last Thursday in front of town councillors.

Without an opportunity to defend himself or give an update, Woolsey faced numerous questions on questions about the Park Valley indoor swimming pool.

Councillors are very unhappy with the front entrance, the lack of boot racks and the fact people must take their shoes off. They want action.

It was rather unfortunate that Woolsey wasn't allowed to answer his critics. He undoubtedly has been studying alternatives to the problems at the pool.

While council tore into the recreation director over conditions at the swimming pool, say a word was uttered on the lack of washrooms at the Centennial Civic Arena.

It appears that council will do as they have for years — just ignore the situation. Luckily, it's just about the end of the hockey season.

We will be keeping tabs on the Civic Arena situation and hope council can find the money somewhere to put in toilets in the two dressing rooms and referee's room before the 1985-86 season.

Minor ball in Drayton Valley is off and running. A player registration and parent meeting will be held tomorrow (Thursday) night, 7:30 p.m. at the Amoco Safety Hall.

Danny Thompson, past president of the Drayton Valley Minor Baseball Association, is looking at establishing a ways and means committee for all sports. Thompson says minor ball will likely bring Stampede Wrestling to town this summer as part of their fundraising.

STANLEY CUP PREDICTION — Would you believe Philadelphia?
The Oilers might be there, but they won't last long if they continue to pay like they have been.

Ball hockey registration will be held April 3 and 4 at the Civic Arena starting at 8:30 p.m. Teams and executive are needed for the league. If you're interested call Calvin Benefield

Skip Deb Collyer.

Collyer wins at Edson

Three Drayton Valley rinks put on strong performances at the Edson ladies' bonspiel March 8-10.

The Deb Collyer rink earned their second first-place finish in the 'A' event in as many years at the bonspiel while the Lila Hotie rink finished second in the 'C' event and the Cindy Vowk rink captured the 'F' event.

Collyer dropped the Hazel Ryhann rink from Pigeon Lake 9-2 after six ends to earn first place in the eight-event bonspiel.

It was the first bonspiel this season for Collyer and rinkmates Debbie VanEmber, Connie Krowchuk and Gloria Shapka who also placed first at the Breton bonspiel and second at Spruce Grove.

Curling with Hotie at the Edson bonspiel, which featured 84 rinks, were Mary-Lou Wilkes, Gail Dow and Susan Bunn.

The Cindy Vowk rink included Linda Jamieson, June Hesselbarth and Shirley Giurysak.

Tetrault, McQuaig win boxing titles

Two Drayton Valley boxers won provincial titles at a weekend card in Edmonton.

Rodney (Froggy) Tetrault won a unanimous decision in the 125-pound junior 'B' category when he beat favorite Tommy Smith of the host Edmonton Native Friendship Centre.

Randy McQuaig, a third-year boxer, went untested in capturing the provincial title in the 105-pound class.

Kirk Urchysky lost out in the 165-pound junior 'C' final to Jason Douglas of Lethbridge and Terry Swartz lost in the semi's of the 132-pound junior 'C' category to Lavelle Bessley of Fort Saskatchewan who went on to win the provincial title.

Doug Bolianatz, coach of the Derrick Boxing Club in Drayton Valley, was pleased with the showing of his four fighters. But, he was extremely pleased with the work of Tetrault, a first-year boxer.

"We knew he had the potential and that's why he went to the provincials," Bolianatz said.

The Derrick Boxing Club is working on an April 6 card in Drayton Valley.

Gymnastics club buys mats, hires coach

With a new coach and new tumbling mats, the Drayton Valley Community Gymnastics Club is looking forward to an improved organization and facility.

With the help of a local Royal Canadian Legion grant earlier this year, the gymnastics club purchased new rubberized floor mats for its facility and replaced carpeting.

The club has also hired a gymnastics coach to instruct its classes which run five days a week in the band building behind H.W. Pickup Junior High School.

"We're better organized and we've hired the coach we wanted to get," club president Celenia Miller said. "All we need now is more involvement from the parents."

Miller added the club plans to organize further fundraising — such as a gymnathon this April — to help purchase more mats and gym equipment and to possibly upgrade the facility.

Currently, the gymnastics club offers courses for children pre-school age to adults.

The club is at a "pre-competitive level" says new coach Gillian Best, adding she'll work towards both recreational and competitive gymnastics.

"We're not going out for number one, we're looking to try hard," she said. "Anyone that wants to compete can compete."

As the club progresses, Best will look for gymnastic competitions involving clubs at basically the same level.

"I don't know what's out there but I hope there are similar clubs so (ours) doesn't get turned off competition. I'd like to pick other clubs that are equal to us."

An addition to the club's program this spring is the adult courses, which are aimed at improving strength and body flexibility.

The club has bought new mats and is looking at other future improvements.

Executive required

Referees needed for ball hockey season

The Drayton Valley ball hockey season should get underway in late April or early May but may go without an executive.

A meeting scheduled by previous organizer Calvin Bennefield produced only minimal response in creating an executive to oversee the league operation and finances.

Arena and other league expenses could go as high as $2,800 this year.

Bennefield said Friday an attempt to form an executive will be made at registration time, scheduled for April 3-4 between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. at Centennial Civic Arena.

According to Bennefield, only two people attended the organizational meeting held last Thursday.

The league is also looking for officials to referee the games which are held Tuesday and Thursday nights.

"Our main concern right now is to find referees," Bennefield said. "If we don't, we might have to have players from each team referee, but I don't know how well that would go."

Last season, the league used paid referees during the regular season and playoffs and is looking to do the same this year.

Some changes to this year's regulations include a more strict registration set-up where players must pay before the first league game. As well, there will be no late registration or additional players accepted past the April 4 deadline.

Last year, several teams in the six-team league requested to add players to their roster since the registration was before university and college students returned for the summer.

This year, if teams know of players wanting to play but cannot attend the registration, they'll have to be included by other team players, Bennefield said.

Also this year, the team roster will be expanded to 18 players and teams will be able to swap goaltenders.

Hockey action starts Friday

Drayton Valley's three mite hockey teams will host a three-day tournament here starting Friday featuring teams from Evansburg, Thorby, Warburg, Spruce Grove and Edison.

The mite teams will face-off 8:30 p.m. Friday at Centennial Civic Arena in only the second local tournament held this year. Games are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday also.

An opening ceremony is planned for 2:15 p.m. Saturday and will involve several workers from the Beehive Workshop, who'll also drop ceremonial pucks for the start of each game, tournament organizer Garry Janzen said.

Janzen is one of six coaches from the Drayton Valley mite teams helping to organize the tournament.

The eight teams, including locals J&A Trucking, Braidnor and Flint, will battle for top spot in game.

two, four-team pools. No championship games between the pool winners is scheduled because of insufficient ice time.

"We tried to divide the pools so that the teams that are the same compete in the same pool and are competitive," Janzen said.

J&A and Braidnor will face Spruce Grove and Evansburg Diggers in the Mowhawk sponsored pool while Flint will face Thorby, Warburg and Edison in the Drayton Valley Vacuum Services pool.

Also on Saturday, the Drayton Valley Scout Association will hold a pancake breakfast for the tournament and the town has also put up free passes to Park Valley Pool to the players involved.

Awards for the top offensive and defensive players as well will be presented at the end of each game.

Interest in this year's trade fair good

Response has been good for the 1985 Drayton Valley Trade Fair.

Martin Prentice, who is returning with Kristina Little to co-chair the Sept. 6, 7 and 8 event, says response has been good. The committee sent letters late last month to exhibitors from last year. Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce members and those on the '84 waiting list. These people have until March 24 to make their intentions known. After that, booth space will be thrown open. Prentice says he expects most of the exhibitors from last year's very successful show to return. The two organizers don't expect too many headaches this year. "We created an operational manual from last year's trade fair," Prentice says.

Around the Province

Funding denied

An application by the town of Edson for $1.4 million in federal funding for a proposed family leisure centre has been turned down. The grant was turned down for a number of factors including the deficit which the proposed facility would operate under.

New manager

Dennis Stables is the new town manager at Three Hills. He replaces Bob Jenkins who has taken a similar job at Lacombe.

Shopping bylaw defeated

The first reading of a business bylaw in Taber drawn up by town administration in consultation with the Chamber of Commerce, was defeated at council.

Fender bender spree

The RCMP at Yellowknife are keeping busy with a fender bender spree that totalled 19 in one week.

Rangers take final with overtime victory

After splitting the opening two games of their consolation series against Rocky Mountain House in the Central Alberta Peewee Hockey League, the Getzinger Rangers produced an 11-10 overtime victory to clinch the final Monday.

Daylen Peannmuller deflected a Craig Warren shot with 4:34 left in the sudden-death overtime at Centennial Civic Arena capping a successful season.

Getzinger dropped a 9-7 decision to Rocky Mountain House in the first game of the best of three series then rebounded with a 4-0 win to even the battle.

It was a see-saw game Monday as the two clubs matched scoring almost goal for goal.

Steven Street and Kevin Dusterhoft opened the scoring early in the first period giving the homeclub a 2-0 advantage but Rocky Mountain House shelled local netminder Dean McDowell with three goals to round out the first period and a fourth just 23 seconds into the middle period.

Only seconds later, Getzinger mounted a rally of their own with goals by Randy Kelso, Kevin Bergquist and Daylen Peannmuller's first goal of the game giving Rangers a 5-4 edge.

Momentum swung again as Rocky Mountain House pounded three more goals into the Ranger

net. Dusterhoft brought the team to within one with only 14 seconds remaining in the period and Kevin Carefoot tied the game less than two minutes into the third.

The game turned bleak after Rocky Mountain House added two more to their tally with eight minutes remaining but Getzinger mounted a comeback scoring off drives from Kelso, Bergquist and Carefoot giving the team a 10-9 advantage.

Rocky Mountain House scored with a 143 remaining to even the game and force overtime.

Rimbey takes league title

The Rimbey Weststars are off to the provincial junior 'B' hockey finals.

The Weststars defeated the Hobbema Eagles 12-6 Sunday after posting a 9-6 win Friday to sweep their best-of-seven Central Alberta Junior 'B' Hockey League final in four games.

The Weststars travel to Calgary for the eight-team provincials March 28-30.

The Weststars advanced to the league final after eliminating the Barrhead Elks 3-1 in their best-of-five semi-final while Hobbema upset Hinton 3-2 in their semi-final series.

The Weststars will be making their second trip to the provincials in the last three years. Two years ago they lost out in the semi-finals.

"I hope we can do better this time round," said Weststars' coach Vern Poppenroth.

The Weststars, who started the season on a 17-game winning streak and then hit a mid-season slump due to injuries and a shortage of players, appear back on track in the past month.

The Weststars play the south in their first game at the provincial at 8 p.m. on March 28. All the games will be played at the Stu Peppard Arena located in Calgary.

Waddell wins

Melvin Waddell earned a silver medal at the Senior Provincial Judo Championships in Airdrie Saturday, leading a small group of local fighters.

Waddell, competing with the Tomahawk Judo Club, finished with a 4-2 win/loss record in the under 78 kilogram category for blue-belts and under. He was competing in the single largest weight category at the tournament.

On March 9, Waddell finished second at the Northern Alberta Judo Championships.

Drayton Valley Judo Club's Phil Courterelle and Tomahawk's Gerald Trimble finished with 0-2 records at Airdrie. Both fighters were competing in the under 78 kilogram category.

Don Fulka, competing in the under 78 kilogram brown/black belt category, also finished at 0-2.

Volunteer enjoys work with cadets

Citizen of the Week

When Lorna Luchyk first volunteered to help out the local air cadets on a canoe trip, she didn't think it would evolve into an eight year program.

Now, commanding and working with the 80 cadets involved in the local 753 Squadron is something that "raises pretty high" with Luchyk.

"It was something I had wanted to do (as a teenager) but they didn't allow females to join," she said.

"I've done a lot of things now I wouldn't have done if I hadn't joined — flying and gliding, even camping out in the bush. I probably never would have gone out winter camping if I hadn't joined up. But the kids are still the best part. I shouldn't call them (the cadets) kids; they're not kids anymore at that age (18-19). They're treated like adults and they respond as adults."

Luchyk, along with six other local volunteers, works with the cadets every Thursday night at Frank Maddock High School.

While they do learn how to march and follow military rankings, the cadets are involved in "much, much more," Luchyk says.

The cadet program also stresses such areas as leadership, citizenship, planning and organizing as well as sports and outdoor pursuits like camping and canoeing.

Eight students from Tomahawk School have entered Parkland County's annual Science Fair held at the Servflex at Spruce Grove. The fair is open to all public students in the county although the Tomahawk students were the only ones from the county's west end that have entered this year. Ervin Plahke (above) inspects his water wheel and electricity entry above. The fair is scheduled for today (Wednesday) until 4 p.m.

Practices begin soon

Ceasars gear up for new season

Ceasars' soccer team are getting ready for the '85 soccer season.

The Drayton Valley men's team that plays in the Central Alberta Rural Towns Soccer League will begin indoor practices on Saturday, April 6 at 9 p.m. at the Rec Plex.

Simon Kelly returns as president of Ceasars and the league.

Ron Bealer has been elected vice-president of the Ceasars with Chris Brown handling the coaching. Blake Little returns as captain and Mark Buckland is an advisor on the club's five-member executive.

Kelly hopes to see seven teams in the league this year with Stony Plain being the only newcomers. They join Ceasars, Whitecourt, defending champions Spruce Grove, Mayerthorpe, Sundance and Hinton.

League play is expected to start in mid-May depending on the condition of playing fields.

Woolsey "generally pleased"

Cost-sharing proposal near completion

The Parkland County recreation office will table a second draft of a proposed county facility agreement before councillors March 21 which would help standardize cost-sharing agreements within the county.

According to recreation director Barb Smith, county council made only minor changes to the original draft and if the second draft is approved, it will be sent to municipalities involved in county cost sharing.

The proposal is intended to remove some "logistical problems" within the present system, Smith said, explaining the county currently has separate agreements with each municipality — including Drayton Valley — and can take two to three months a year to ratify each one.

The county and municipality enter cost-sharing agreements based generally on the number of county-users using municipal facility such as an arena or pool.

Drayton Valley has an estimated county-user rate of 26 per cent, according to 1983-84 figures.

"No one is disputing there should be equal use and the county should pay for that use," Smith said but instead where payment should be directed, such as debenture cost for a facility.

The proposal now being drafted would direct payments on debenture interest and not the debenture itself, she said.

Also in previous agreements, the county had to use estimated figures when it developed its budget "so when it came time to pay, the figures might be out of whack," Smith said.

"We would budget on estimates and when the figures would come in, they'd be different and council would not want to pay more than what was budgeted for.

"(With the proposal we know exactly what goes into the budget and we know exactly what we're going to pay," she said.

Smith added the proposal will not affect current cost-sharing arrangements nor would payments be stopped.

While local recreation director Dennis Woolsey said he has not studied the proposal in detail as yet, he was "generally pleased" with its suggestions.

Woolsey said there are "always conditions and wrinkles" that are not totally acceptable in general agreements but he could recognize and appreciate the need for such an agreement on the county's administration.

Although the recreation department has been briefed on the proposal it nor the town has entered in negotiations with the county.

If the second draft of the proposal is approved by county council, it will be sent to municipal councils and asked to be dealt with there, Smith said.

Seniors' video completed

The Shangri La Lodge and ACCESS video presentation could air on satellite television sometime in the next three months after copyright procedures are completed.

The 28-minute video has been screened and approved by both Alberta Educational Communication Corp. management and the Shangri La Lodge management board and is now waiting for copyright approval, producer Sherrel Beresh said.

The video must be copyrighted before ACCESS can release it publicly.

"All that really remains is the copyrighting and it can be released," she said, adding she expects the process to be completed sometime before April 15.

Titled 'When you walk through that door Activities for Seniors', the video will be distributed by both the Lodge and ACCESS. The video, which was filmed and then transferred to recording tape, centres around the life and activities at Shangri La Lodge and will be distributed to other lodges around the province by the local senior citizens' group.

According to Beresh, 'Activities for Seniors' will "certainly be aired before the summer" on the ACCESS satellite channel.

Plans for a local premier are also being considered by the Shangri La Lodge management board.

ACCESS crews, under the direction of Ray Harper, filmed the production last fall with a script written by staff writer Dave Campbell.

"The Golden Road" is a co-operative effort between ACCESS and the Shangri La Lodge and is funded in part from a federal New Horizons grant.

Starling returned as president

Betty Starling has been returned as president of the Drayton Valley Purple Pansy Senior Citizens' Association.

At the association's annual meeting last Thursday in the Wishing Well lounge, Leo Jenan was elected vice-president and Joan Pruden was also returned for another one-year term as secretary-treasurer. Ileen Disney, Jack Starling, Terry Brown and Les Gambin were elected to two-year terms as directors. Alice Carter, Anna Pawluk, Fred Schipper, Gladys McMorris and Earl Thompson have one year left as directors.

Lois Davis has moved to Edmonton.

Secretary leaves after nine years

A familiar face around the Drayton Valley Alberta Agriculture office is no longer there.

Secretary Lois Davis, who has worked at the office for nine years, has left to take a supervisory position at the market analysis branch of Alberta Agriculture in Edmonton.

"I applied for the job in January and was interviewed in February," she said.

Her first day in her new job was March 15. "I was ready to make the move. I waited until my daughter graduated from high school."

The promotion to Edmonton will make further education more accessible to her as well.

"I want to enlist in some extension courses at the University of Alberta," Davis added.

Having aspirations to get into management, she has already taken administration courses at Athabasca University. And she enrolled in drafting courses at NAIT.

Davis enjoys sewing and the NAIT courses gave her a chance to make men's suits.

Her and husband Lynn have put their acreage up for sale and hope to purchase another one in the Ledoux area.

For the time being she will be sharing accommodations in Edmonton.

A temporary secretary will fill in at the local office until a permanent replacement can be found.

Town plans oil talks

Drayton Valley town council plan to meet 'behind closed doors' with representatives of Mobil Oil.

In November, the town's municipal planning commission was approached about a lane development in the southwest sector of Drayton Valley. In order for this project to proceed, the commission required approval from Mobil Oil to use land near one of their well sites.

In their letter to the town, Mobil Oil say they cannot grant the request as the lane development will reduce the size of the lease and will make service operations crowded and unsafe.

Mobil Oil also stated in their letter, allowing the lane would essentially open unlimited public access to the lease for motor vehicle use, recreation use and storage.

Councillor Bill Paniec says every effort should be made to

Bill Paniec

work together. The administration will arrange the meeting.

NAIT students at hospital

Karen Bolch and Colleen Zakordonski will be spending six months at the Drayton Valley and District Health Complex.

No, they aren't patients, but rather NAIT students completing the practical portion of their training as combined laboratory and x-ray technicians.

Both are from the Edmonton area and like the rest of their classmates were sent to rural hospitals across the province.

At present, Bolch is in the lab and Zakordonski is stationed in x-ray. But for their six-month stay in Drayton Valley, they will alternately spend three-week periods in each department.

"Right now I'm doing electrocardiograms, blood counts and blood smears," said Bolch.

And Zakordonski is working with radiographs and filing.

"Our supervisors send us out to do things on our own when they think we're ready," Bolch said.

Evaluations of their performances will be done by their supervisors and some work will be sent back to NAIT for grading.

Both will be working about eight hours a day, five days a week until Aug. 28.

"I think it gives us good practical experience," Bolch said.

"If it's something you like, you'll want to get a job in that area," added Zakordonski.

Each receiving a paycheck of less than $600 monthly, the two share an apartment to cut down on expenses.

Other students will be working in the hospital this year, gaining experience in their chosen fields.

Karen Bolch will work in the lab for her first three weeks.

Reich family has spent 79 years in area

By Donna Hakedal

Manuel Reich was born in Poland in 1905 and celebrated his 80th birthday Jan. 23 of this year.

Because of rumblings of war in Europe before WWI broke out, many chose to come to Canada where they felt more secure and could start a new life.

In 1914 the Reich family chose to come to Canada. But Manuel's father had been a Russian soldier for seven years and because of the unrest, was unable to get permission to leave. So he sent his wife and six children to Germany and was able to walk across the line himself without being caught.

After waiting three weeks for their passports, they began the two-week trip across the ocean to Halifax. Manuel remembers spending two days among icebergs.

When they arrived in Halifax they were met by people who tried to talk them into going to San Francisco because the population there had suffered severely following the 1906 earthquake. But Mrs. Reich wanted to join her sister in Tomahawk, Alberta.

The train took them as far as Gainford, where they were met and taken on a 1½ day trip to Tomahawk by wagon.

Manuel's father homesteaded in the Whitley district. There were no jobs and money was scarce, but rabbits weren't. So rabbits became their main source of meat for the next few years.

They built a house and bought a team of oxen to begin farming.

"Travel with oxen was pretty slow," says Manuel. They did their shopping in Gainford, leaving home at 8 p.m., arriving there about 6 a.m. The oxen grazed while his father shopped. Around noon they would leave for home.

For some reason, horses didn't do well in this part of the country when the settlers first came. Wild grass didn't seem to sustain them and they often died of distemper. Oxen fared well and were stronger, but slower. "They (the oxen) were a good team," says Manuel. They were well trained, each weighing about 2,000 pounds.

There was little opportunity for Manuel to attend school. Teachers didn't stay long in the early days and the children were needed to help at home. Also, there was a language barrier. With people coming from different countries, each spoke their native language until they mastered English.

Manuel and Kay Reich.

Manuel has done a lot of reading. "I had to educate myself," Manuel states.

After coming to Canada the family grew to number 13 children.

When he was 18 Manuel homesteaded and married Kay.

Kay was born in South Dakota, U.S.A. and was one year old when her family moved to Hilliard, A.B. where her father farmed. They later moved to Tomahawk.

Kay remembers her first trip to Tomahawk when their car got stuck in the mud and she had to walk in her dress shoes. "Now people complain about dust from gravel," she says. Her family totaled 11 children.

Manuel and Kay moved onto the homestead in 1931 just as the Depression was hitting hard.

Kay remembers how thrilled she was when they built their first log home. "That to me was a palace, because it was mine." In those days there were no wedding gifts to speak of, so young couples started from scratch. They were able to get a few chickens, a cow and some pigs, so they were somewhat self-sufficient.

When wheat was selling for 16 cents a bushel and oats for 11 cents a bushel, which had to be hauled to Gainford. Trunkers charged 4 cents a bushel, so Manuel hauled his own. During the winter it was a "long trek". He walked behind the sleigh to keep from freezing. The grain was left in sacks until there was a carload, when they would have to return and load it on a boxcar.

Kay and Manuel Reich had two children: Evelyn Lukaniuk of Tomahawk, and a son, David, who was killed in a car accident in 1952.

Kay remembers using the backs of adults' trouser legs to make trousers for the children. Everything was sewn by hand until the day a Singer sewing machine salesman came by with a "good deal". Five dollars down and five dollars a year, $15 being their final payment.

In those days they sold eggs for three cents a dozen, hogs for $2.50 each. They got $18 for a cow (a good price then), and were able to buy a good secondhand 1926 car for the same price.

Manuel did some trucking, hauling everything from livestock to groceries.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Town of Drayton Valley will receive bids for the removal of hay from the lands known as the Drayton Valley Municipal Airport.

The property consists of approximately 160 acres located on part of lands registered with the Land Titles Office as the N.E. ¼ 28-49-7-W5 and S.E. ¼ 33-49-7-W5 and part of S.E. ¼ 28-49-7-W5.

The successful bidder will be required to enter into an agreement with the Town of Drayton Valley. All bids must be accompanied by a certified cheque in the amount of 10% of the bid payable to the Town of Drayton Valley. The remainder shall be paid within 30 days from the date of acceptance of the bid.

All bids will be submitted to the Town of Drayton Valley, Box 837, Drayton Valley, Alberta, T0E 0M0 to the attention of R. Wenbourne, up until 3:00 p.m., local time on Friday, March 29, 1985.

The Town reserves the right to accept or reject any or all tenders.

Grant money available for area projects

A community meeting to discuss the community recreation cultural grant will be held tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the county building. The County of Parkland Parks and Recreation Board needs community involvement to plan for the use of the grants. This is your opportunity to air your views on the grant and how it can be used in Drayton Valley. Alberta Recreation and Parks has announced a five-year (1985-89) community recreation and cultural grant available to all municipalities at a minimum of $15 per capita per year. Fifty per cent of the amount is to be used by community societies and fifty per cent by the municipality. The grant can be used for capital projects (facilities, equipment, etc.), operational and programming projects and planning.

The grant must be matched in some circumstances.

Share your community's projects and activities — attend tonight's meeting.

RCMP lease

The Town of Drayton Valley has sent a letter to the province inquiring about a month-to-month rental arrangement for the RCMP building. The new RCMP quarters in Drayton Valley are scheduled for completion Aug. 1. The town would like to rent the building and the organizing committee for the Alberta Senior Games would like to relocate their main office in the downtown building.

Sidewalk cleanup

Councillor Tom McGee has agreed to talk with merchants about keeping the downtown clean. Council would like to see the merchants maintain a regular sweep of their walks.

A new handicap lift for the whirlpool at the new Park Valley indoor swimming pool has been ordered.

High school reunion

Council has authorized the closing of the street in front of the arena and curling rink on the weekend of June 28-30 to accommodate a dance planned as part of the Frank Maddock High School's 25th reunion.

Push for sidewalks

Councillor Charlie Miner has asked the administration to look at the sidewalk situation near the new senior citizens' complex. Miner would like to see sidewalks on the north and east sides. At the present time, kids walking along there have to use the road.

Video to promote town

The town's new economic development board has recommended to council to proceed with a video tape that could be used as a promotional tool. The cost would be about $20,000. No decision has been made. The organizing committee for the 1986 Albert Senior Games to be hosted by Drayton Valley have also talked of a film to promote the town.

Pool causing town headache

Town council in Drayton Valley are 'up in arms' over the size of the front entrance and the absence of proper boot racks at the new Park Valley indoor swimming pool.

Council plan to meet with the architects to see what action can be taken to correct the situation. Councillor Howard Olsen told council last week that he had received numerous complaints about the entrance, the lack of boot racks and the fact people had to take their shoes off to go in to watch.

"I'm surprised kids go home with the same pair of boots," Olsen remarked.

Mayor Bob Mayhew was concerned about the boot racks as to their placement in the present front entrance. "Where are you going to put them? It's mostly glass," he said.

Olsen also expressed his concerns over reports that people were 'sneaking' into the pool.

He suggested directional ropes at the cash register.

Councillor Tom McGee suggested meeting with the architects before making any moves.

Per capita debt near $1,600

Evansburg financial report shows surplus

The 1984 financial statements for the Village of Evansburg showed a surplus of $1,613 for the village's operations for the year. That surplus, however, is only a "paper" surplus, noted village secretary Joan Halpin and would only be realized if all the accounts receivable were liquidated.

At year-end, the accounts receivable included outstanding taxes and grants in lieu of $86,859. Of that total, $24,866 were outstanding from previous years, down from the approximately $80,000 that the village started with outstanding at the beginning of the year. Collection of the 1984 taxes was about the same as in previous years, with approximately 11 per cent outstanding at year-end.

The financial statements showed a principal debt of $1,249,203 for the village; about $1,593.50 per capita. This debenture debt also has an interest debt of $2,548,896. The high interest debt led to the present council's policy to apply it to the debenture principal to retire present debentures.

Capital projects for 1985 planned are the storm sewer extension, which will utilize an Alberta Transportation Streets Assistance Program grant for $107,720. The grant will cover 50 per cent of the project's engineering costs and 75 per cent of the construction costs.

The 1984 financial statements are now available at the village office.

County buys detection kits

County council has authorized the purchase of two hydrogen sulfide gas detection kits for county employees inspecting well sites.

The kits, at a cost of $1,239 each, will be supplied along with a recommendation the inspectors not go into sites without first notifying the companies which operate them.

Councillor Ron Pollock said there may well be other dangers than hydrogen sulfide gas at the sites which inspectors should be aware of before they enter.

The kits include gas masks, detector units and air bottles.

Inspectors are to enter sites in teams of two with one person staying some distance behind the other in case the first inspector is overcome by gas.

Annual Buck Lake talent show March 30

By LeOpal Larson
BCK 2122

Please note the fifth annual Buck Lake talent show will be held in the Buck Lake Hall at 7 p.m. on Saturday, March 30. Watch for posters.

Bill and Millie Gabriel attended a community reunion at Rosthern, Sask. recently. Bill was born there and his parents died there in the flu epidemic in 1918. He attended school in Rosthern until he was 14. He reminisced with people he hadn't seen for 60 years. Rosthern is about 45 miles north of Saskatoon.

Buck Creek Days organizing

By Colleen Hallgren
542-5573

Our community is saddened by the death of two long-time residents, Asbjorn (Butch) Smethstad and Mrs. Norma Mayland. Our deepest sympathies go out to their families.

Happy anniversary to Henning and Flo Hallgren (54th), Ralph and Helen McKay (39th) and Willie and Diane Vaness (13th).

I would like to thank all the women that participated in the aerobics class. You really committed yourselves and we saw great results. We had a total loss of 26 pounds and 30 inches.

Come join the fun Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. A babysitter is available at the school. A meeting will be held to organize Buck Creek Days. Check with Pam Williams for the date and time.

Ruby Woods and Maggie Siegel enjoyed a two-week holiday in Florida recently.

George Fontaine played in the Oldtime Fiddle Jamboree and dance March 2 at Teas. There was a capacity crowd in attendance to enjoy their lovely new hall. There were also four ladies and five men who told "believe-it-or-not" stories.

Most of the farmers in the area are watching day and night for new calves. The weather has been very nice and warm, which makes for wet ground and the need for lots of bedding.

Money market

Collectors active

The down-turn in the economy is not having a big effect on the coin market.

Albert Kaiser of Calgary, who operated a three-day show in Drayton Valley last week says people are only disposing of small coin.

Despite the economy and the value of the Canadian dollar, the Calgary coin collector says there's a lot of interest in Canadian coin and paper money. The oldtimers are very interested in the "shipplaters" which originated during the Revolutionary War and "horse blankets".

While some people are getting rid of small amounts of coin, Kaiser, who has been involved with coins since 1939, says the collectors always come around to upgrade their collections.

"Collectors are everywhere. There's a lot of good collectors in the Drayton Valley area," he says.

Kaiser says Centennial year money is very popular with some interest in foreign money.

Lots of people, which is the case in Drayton Valley, bring in coin to check out its value. The value of the coin depends on the limited numbers made and its condition.

Kaiser's collection included a 1948 silver dollar in above mint condition selling for $1,400. He also had an 1886 nickel for $395 and an 1859 large cent selling for $165.

"I will likely sell these coins here. But, if not here, somewhere else," Kaiser said.

Dog population growing

Councillor Howard Olsen is concerned over the dog population in Drayton Valley.

Statistics presented to council last Thursday showed that dogcatcher Danny Caruthers had impounded 171 dogs last year. Of these, 38 were placed and only 25 were reclaimed.

"The number of reclaimed dogs basically tells me dogs are coming into town from other places," Olsen said.

The report also showed that the dogcatcher worked 872 hours last year. However, Councillor Tom McEwen would like to see this increased.

New moon is time for beginning projects

We are one day short of New Moon. The night is dark and this is the time when dark deeds are done. The dark of the moon favors acts of hatred and discord and things that break up and disrupt the peace. Take care.

The moon is in the watery sign of Pisces when imagination and reality merge for a time. Escapist activities are the order of the day.

Start a new batch of home brew. Avoid tasting it though, if you tend to over-indulge. AA volunteers should stay near the phones because Pisces is when drinkers fall off the wagon.

New Moon occurs March 20. Everything has deteriorated and shrunken and reached its lowest ebb. With New Moon a new cycle begins.

It is a time for starting new projects and changing to new patterns.

March 22-23 we will be in the sign of Aries, which also favors new beginnings and fresh starts.

The cheapest animals are found in First Quarter and since Aries is the sign of the sheep, this is the time to invest in them.

Bake fluffy creations. Buy frilly new clothes. Have your eyes tested and get new glasses. Buy or repair cars and machinery.

March 24-25 will find us in the solid earth sign of Taurus the bull, which favors stability. If material success is your goal in life, start a new job now. Begin a new business venture and you'll slowly climb to the top.

A Farm Wife's Almanac

by Joanne Benger

Open a savings account or start making plans to save for retirement, the children's education, or some other long-term project that guarantees future security.

Buy a permanent home. Its value should increase in time and you should get well-rooted in the community.

Beauty treatments are favored if you want to look pleasant and respectable. You won't get ultra-modern hairdos now. Your make-over may make you look placid and bovine, but you won't be gossiped about, either.

If you want to lead an exciting life of travel don't buy a house now. Ditto if you want to look sensuous and exciting. This is not the time to change your look.

March 26-27 will find us in the exciting sign of Gemini when we all communicate best. Party and socialize. Write the letters you have been putting off.

Those lucky week is 1st

March 21 - April 20 is the lucky time for Sagittarius and the lucky number to remember is 8. This week is especially fortunate for those born between Nov. 23 and 29.

Important days this week

March 20 is the first day of spring. March 25 is Lady Day, which means that there are exactly nine months of shopping before next Christmas.

Public speaking finals Sunday

Summer schedule will keep 4-Hers busy

By Candace Bjorge
Regional 4-H Specialist

Information has been pouring out of the Regional 4-H office as we complete our spring information package to 4-H club leaders. There are a number of opportunities outlined in the Summer Provincial Programs booklet which may be of interest to you.

4-H summer camps

There'll be new friends, new games and outdoor living to enjoy. You'll learn about citizenship, leadership, getting along with other people and 4-H.

Regional camp dates:

Lake Lessard (near Cherhill) July 15-19, Aug. 5-9
Camps run at the Alberta 4-H Centre (near Wetaskiwin) throughout the summer. Dates are listed on the application form.
4-H Club Week: Camrose College Aug. 7-13.
Senior 4-H members from all over Alberta work in small and large groups on the subjects of personal growth and development. Activities include solving problems, sports, family communication and understanding, self-confidence and planning for self-improvement. Learning new skills and making new friends makes for a very active, memorable week.

Alberta 4-H Conservation Camp:
Silver Creek Ranch (west of Carstairs) July 21-27

A unique educational opportunity exists at this camp for senior members to learn about the world they live in. Emphasis will be on conservation and how to apply the information you gain back in your own community.

4-H Expression: Olds College

Aug. 7-9

Expression is a program for all 4-H members and leaders. The focus of this event is to learn and share ideas on 4-H projects and items of special interest which will assist you in making your club work more meaningful. Examples of the skill workshops offered this year are "Crafts from the Past", "Make it with Ribbons", and "Winning Isn't Everything".

Alberta 4-H Christmas card contest
Assist the Honorable LeRoy Fjordbotten, our Minister of Agriculture, in bringing Christmas to his friends, staff and business associates.

Design a 5"x7" (13 cm X 18 cm) Christmas card! The top three entrants will have dinner with the minister and each will receive a gift.

Ask your 4-H leader for more information and application forms for these and other programs. Apply as soon as possible as these events are popular!

Coming events

1. Northwest region public speaking finals: Sunday, March 24 at 1 p.m.
* North half — Sanguo Legion Hall
* South half — Stony Plain Provincial Building Conference Room.
2. 4-H pheasant workshop
Wednesday, April 17, 7:00 - 9:30 p.m.
Stony Plain Provincial Building, Conference Room.

If we've made a mistake

Don't Go Away MAD.
Tell us about it.

Don't tell your next door neighbors because they can't help. But maybe we can. We don't want it to happen again. And we do try to do it right the first time.

We try to answer promptly when you telephone us and connect you to the person you're calling.

We try to deliver your hometown newspaper on time — rain or shine.

We try to quote you right when you give us the home-

We try to get the facts and phone number right in your classified ad.

We try to put all the right information in your display ad — just the way you want it.

We try to bill you right.

In other words, we try to give you the old-fashioned kind of service you want so that you'll be satisfied. We honestly try. But we slip up now and again. So tell us straight. And don't go away mad.

After all,
We're Only Human

Learning tools: Computer's educational use dependent on software

By Phil Courterelle
During the last decade, computers have made such technological advances they almost defy imagination.

Once only a unique tool used by an elite number of trained people, computers are now as available as the most basic household commodity and they affect nearly every aspect of North American life, from the cars we drive to the dishwashers we use to clean the evening meal to our entertainment.

Because computers now occupy such an important and diverse role in society, they demand people become much more aware of their usages and operations. Thus, computers have entered the educational system at nearly every level, from Grade 1 to the highest post in university and, like everything else they've touched, changed it forever.

The irple of computers in education is presently at a primary level as students and teachers become familiar simply with its operation. But with little doubt, computers will take on an even more important function as educators begin to utilize its potential to teach and instruct.

"Computers can help teachers teach, can help students learn and can perform administrative and clerical operations to assist teachers."

A government report tabled in 1983 titled "Computers in School," recognizes the importance of computers and makes several recommendations for their implementation in the Alberta educational system.

While the report goes to great lengths detailing the importance of computer literacy — knowledge of the computer itself — it also makes reference to its educational capabilities.

"Teachers are not always able to devote as much attention to individual students as they might wish," the report says. "They are constrained by large numbers of students and administrative demands on their time; these are but two areas where computers can be of assistance."

"Computers can help teachers teach, can help students learn and can perform administrative and clerical operations to assist teachers in the work they do to support instruction."

The educational use of computers will, with little doubt, increase as software improves.

School administrators have undertaken a policy study that will detail and guide the future educational use of computers within the system

The report continues: "Students who are able to use computers and quality courseware will be able to progress at their own pace, at a rate determined by their own interests and abilities. They will not be constrained by the average rate of progress of their classmates, as can be the case in a traditional classroom setting."

The key to improved student learning through computers, however, is the "quality courseware."

This fact is not only recognized in the 123-page report, which recommends government incentives for producing better courseware or software, but by teachers themselves.

Because of the accelerated pace of the computer software market, quality has been largely sacrificed and most of what's now being produced is unsuitable for classroom instruction, explains Pat Kiehlbauch, a former software reviewer for Alberta Education who now teaches at H.W. Pickup Junior High School.

"Because of the accelerated pace of the computer software market, quality programming has been largely sacrificed."

The type and quality of software will ultimately determine to what extent computers are used as educational tools, she says and until programs become more suitable they may not progress past supplementary tools.

At present, most schools in Parkland County have their own computers or at least have ready access and county administrators are preparing a policy study to outline their future role.

"Software has not caught up with the hardware. It's appalling at the amount of software available that isn't appropriate."

"If the policy study is at the point of being completed and receiving board approval," says Peggy Devan, the county's director of school curriculum.

While the county has just initiated computers in some schools others have had them for several years and have developed beyond the primary stages.

Says Devan: "There are a number of schools that have gone well beyond the literacy unit. Alberta Education sees themselves computer courses need increasing simply because students are going beyond what's available."

But again the software problems remains. Succinctly put, software "has not caught up with the hardware."

"It's appalling at the amount of software available that isn't appropriate," she says.

Thompson busy town resident

It's always nice to meet someone who enjoys their work. Danny Thompson fits into that category.

Thompson, a native of Blairmore in southern Alberta, has lived in Drayton Valley for the past 30 years.

And, he's one of the town's most active residents.

People

Thompson has been a member of the Royal Canadian Legion for 11 years serving on their executive for seven years, including the last three as head of their sports committee. He got involved in such sports as darts, bowling, curling and shuffleboard because he saw the sports dying out amongst the Legion's 800 people. "Shuffleboard has fallen off this year but I plan to get after that next season," Thompson says.

For the past two years he has been an active member of the historical society. He has contributed several items to the society and has many of his own collectables.

His contribution to the community doesn't stop there.

Accompanied by his wife Brenda, they are on the organizing committee for the Frank Maddock High School 25th reunion to take place in June.

For the past eight years he has been secretary of the inter-club curling.

And, is very active in the Drayton Valley Minor Baseball Association.

Last year at this time Thompson stepped forth to accept the position of president, just when it looked like the town wouldn't be able to offer the program, due to no president. Last week he stepped down from that position.

"I had to miss the first baseball meeting last year. When my wife came home from the meeting she said there wouldn't be any baseball in Drayton Valley due to a shortage of people. I said no problem, I will take over," Thompson says about his decision to get involved with the kids.

"I thought about returning this year but when Mickey McEwen volunteered for the job, I stepped aside. I never discourage a volunteer," Thompson added.

When Thompson isn't giving his time to community life, he can be found at Brendan New & Used. He opened the thriving business five months ago. His wife Brenda and mother, Linda Thompson work in the store.

Thompson, who previously worked in the oilfield, recently attended the Western Canada School of Auctioneering in Lacombe where he was successful in getting his license. That's an area he hopes to explore in the months ahead. Recently he volunteered his services at the charity auction and helped out at this week's Meet the Pros sports banquet.

Problems with potholes worse

Motorists in Drayton Valley will have to slow down this spring.

"This could be one of the worst years for potholes due to the type of winter we experienced," Councillor Howard Olsen told council last Thursday.

Olsen informed council that costs for road repairs may also go up as mix to fix the roads was not available and other methods would be investigated.

The transportation committee chairman also informed council that the street sweeping would be busy. "It's imperative we get the sand and gravel off the streets. It can affect the streets and also creates a lot of dust," Olsen added.

Councillor Claire Carefoot asked if the street sweeper operator could miss going by the Eldorado school in the morning when kids are enroute to school. Olsen says it's a big job deciding what streets are to be swept, but he would pass the request along.

Couple married in 1935

Lindskoogs mark 50th anniversary

It was a cold, blizzarding day in 1935 when Bernice Swap and Ernest Lindskoog stood waiting for their minister to arrive.

It was a small wedding party with only the couple's immediate family and close friends at hand, waiting at the home of the late-minister's parents.

The weather had turned so bad on that March day, a horse and wagon was sent to rescue the poor minister.

"He'd started out on skis and then my brother had to go get him in the wagon. It was twenty below zero and really blowing hard," Ernest remembers.

"It was so bad we couldn't even take a picture outdoors," Bernice says.

But the minister arrived — two hours late — and the couple were married, a union which has withstood now more than 50 years.

The Lindskoogs celebrated their 50th anniversary quietly March 5 but were given a family reunion (they have four children plus 11 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren) Saturday at Rocky Rapids Hall.

Plagued by the Depression and drought, the Lindskoogs left their family homesteads at Hughsden, a farm community east of Camrose, and migrated to the Easyford/Cynthia area following Bernice's parents and brother.

"It was dried out down there," Ernest, 73, said of Hughsden, "there was nothing there."

"We moved from the dryness into the mud," he laughed.

Ernest and Bernice, now 68, began homesteading near what was once called Lindskoog's corner, a T-intersection about four miles north and three miles west of Drayton Valley.

With the help of their children, the Lindskoogs farmed until 1967 when they sold out and moved into town.

Ernest and Bernice Lindskoog hold their wedding certificate signed more than 50 years ago.

A family with a strong sense of togetherness, Ernest and Bernice are especially proud of their children and their accomplishments.

"The kids were a lot of help," Ernest said, "and as they got older, they helped more."

Except for a few years in Penticton and Creston, British Columbia, the couple has spent the majority of their married life in Drayton Valley. They moved to Penticton to manage a trailer park for two years and then moved to Creston for a year.

"It was too hot in the summer and there was no family," Bernice recalls. "We just came back home."

Dieters to meet

After a five-year absence, Weight Watchers will return to Drayton Valley on Wednesday, March 27.

The first meeting and weigh-in will be held at 6:45 p.m. in the basement of The Church of God, located at 5004-49 Street.

During the past two months organizers have been soliciting support for the weight-loss plan and 50 people have paid their dues in advance. This number could double due to all the interest.

One organizer reports receiving three and four calls per day.

Applications now available for youth employment plan

It's a pleasure to be able to report to you again through The Western Review. While legislature is in session, I will attempt to keep in touch with a weekly column.

We have all just endured the longest, coldest winter for a number of years. Hopefully '85 will be less severe weatherwise and more positive economically.

I had the privilege of attending an Education Week supper in honor of students from all across Alberta. This year's students had written particularly in-depth letters to the minister regarding an educational issue. Angela Schafenberger was selected from Frank Maddock High. Congratulations!

I was sorry to miss St. Anthony's special program and I know many others were held within the constituency.

Education Week is so significant because it's the one week where the importance of education is highlighted.

MLA's Report

with Shirley Cripps

The Minister of Manpower recently announced "Challenge '85 Alberta" - a joint federal-provincial youth employment program. The provincial Summer Temporary Employment Program (STEP) will create student job opportunities from May 1 to Aug. 31.

The Community Employment segment will pay minimum wage to employees plus 10 per cent for employee benefits.

The Summer Farm Employment will cost-share wages up to a maximum of $300 per month.

There is a Career Opportunity element in veterinary, law enforcement and wildlife which are at $5.50 per hour.

I will have applications in my office and send them to the municipalities or call 427-4740. The success of these programs in creating jobs in Drayton Valley constituency depends on the response of the public.

The Summer Employment Experience Development (SEED) programs will provide 50 per cent of wages to $3 per hour to private sector employers who created jobs for students. Non-profit organizations and municipalities are also eligible. The deadline for the SEED applications is April 1. (429-4454).

Breton curling club to hold last bonspiel

By Shelli Carson
696-2296

Charlene Thompson and Bill Marks announce the arrival of their third child, son Sheldon. He was the first baby born in the delivery room of the McKenzie Centre, which is part of the new wing of the University of Alberta hospital.

Fred Hawryluk is home after spending some time in the University of Alberta hospital. He reports he is feeling terrific and appreciates all the concern shown him by his friends and neighbors.

We are pleased to see Catherine Moorhouse is home again. She is still wearing a cast and can only walk with the aid of a walker, but is happy to be home. Her sister, Elaine Johnson of Salem, Oregon, is staying with her while she recovers.

Wallace and Helen Fennemen are proud parents of a daughter, born at Breton General Hospital March 12.

Breton United Church Women held their meeting March 7 at the home of Lorna Carson with 18 members present. We are pleased to have Rosemary Sweet join our group.

The thrift shop will continue to operate Fridays from 2 to 4 p.m. in the United Church basement. The ham supper has been set for April 3 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Breton Community Centre.

Darlene Trelford and Velma Greenwood received their '200' pins at Thorshy bowling lanes March 11.

Breton News

The weekend of March 9 and 10 proved to be a productive one for our local boys who play for the Warburg mites hockey team.

On Saturday the team was undefeated in the Thorshy tournament, winning first place honors. They also took part in a Leduc tournament and won the 'B' side final Sunday afternoon.

The Dennis Carson rink with lead Brigitte Hansen, second Mike Wollen and third Annie Wollen, won the third event in the Alder Flats mixed open bonspiel March 10.

The Breton curling club is holding its final bonspiel of the year the last week in March. This is a mixed open and entries are being taken by Jack Hilker at 696-3882.

Snow White, the Seven Dwarfs, the Prince and the Wicked Witch hosted a "Children's Night

Out" March 8 in Breton. This was an evening of entertainment for the children of the elementary school. It included 163 students.

It all began at 8:30 p.m. with an hour of outside fun followed by supper, prepared by Leona Linde. Craft activities were then started. Such things as small wooden figures were glued together and painted, macaroni insects were constructed, as well as flying paper birds and origami insects. Each child was involved in at least three activities during the two hours.

At 7 p.m. the children and staff paraded their costumes for all to see. Children were then invited to watch a movie before returning home.

Seventeen members on council

Press council established for the public

Any person or persons believing they have an unsatisfied grievance against any of the Alberta daily or weekly newspaper members of the Alberta Press Council, may now refer such a matter to the Council. Written complaints are to be addressed to:

The Alberta Press Council
Executive Secretary, 12424 Lake Fraser Way, S.E.
Calgary, Alberta. T2J 3T8

Statements of complaint in writing will be received by the Council subject to the following provisions:

1. Once a complaint is accepted for investigation, the editor of the newspaper involved will be notified and his observations invited.
2. The grievance must be of a specific nature, but the person making the complaint need not be personally or directly affected by the publication.
3. Council arrives at its conclusions on the basis of written representations, but it may invite concerned persons to appear before it to amplify their views.
4. The Council deals with complaints against individual journalists. Editors accept responsibility for contents of their newspapers.
5. The Council has no statutory power and is not a court of law, but it will hear cases and report its conclusions.

Member newspapers agree to publish all the decisions of the Council involving their respective newspapers.

6. Any complaint involving an Alberta newspaper which is not one of the member newspapers will be forwarded to the newspaper concerned, but will not be dealt with by Council unless requested to do so by that newspaper.

The Alberta Press Council consists of 17 members, one lay-person and one press representative from each of the seven daily newspaper members and the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association, and a chairman. The lay-members are not professionally associated with the media but are representative of the reading public most closely affected by the newspaper in their area. The chairman is never a professional media person and he, together with the other lay-persons, constitutes a voting majority in the membership.

It is the aim of the Council to serve as a medium of understanding between press and public; to encourage adherence by newspapers to the highest ethical and commercial standards of journalism; to guard against infringements of press freedom, and to help maintain a high level of press responsibility. The following are members of the Alberta Press Council:

The Calgary Herald, The Edmonton Journal, The Grande Prairie Daily Herald-Tribune, The Fort McMurray Today, The Medicine Hat News, The Red Deer Advocate, Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association.

Complete details needed for taxes

Many Canadian taxpayers are not clear about what income must be reported on their annual tax return and what need not be reported. The law states, quite simply, that all income, regardless of source and whether or not the taxpayer receives an information slip for it, must be included on the return.

Many people assume, for instance, that income from a foreign source, such as a U.S. bank account or investment, need not be reported to National Revenue. This is a false assumption and one which causes taxpayers to run the risk of being prosecuted under the Income Tax Act. Income from foreign investments must be reported, just as Canadian income must be. Canada's tax treaties with other countries include provision for the exchange of tax-related information, and many unsuspecting Canadian taxpayers have found themselves in unpleasant situations as a result.

Should a Canadian taxpayer, at any time, wish to report income which has previously gone unreported, he or she may make a voluntary disclosure to the tax department. Taxpayers who voluntarily disclose complete information related to unreported income will be neither penalized nor prosecuted by the department. They will be assessed only for taxes owing and accrued interest. However, it is important that taxpayers ensure that they have provided complete details, as the information disclosed is verified by the department. A disclosure is not considered to be voluntary if it is made after the start of a National Revenue investigation of a taxpayer.

Remember her first boyfriend?

"Dad, Mom. This is Paul." Or maybe it was Peter, or Dwayne or Jimmy. His name doesn't matter. Your little girl was introducing you to — "her boyfriend". Fantasies rarely match reality. The chances of that young man matching what you hoped he would be are remote. It's a funny thing about kids. After all the love and care we devote to them; teaching them everything we know about life and living, they turn around and do something that sets us into a tailspin. Boyfriend? This?

One of the main challenges of the adolescent years is the development of skills necessary for adult relationships. Our kids' friends provide one context in which they learn these social skills. They help each other refine and define how they see themselves. They support each other. Remember growing up? We probably put our parents through pretty much the same experience.

Everyone goes through changes. It just happens more often when you're young because there are so many new things to choose, to try, to test. Our kids are facing important issues about themselves, their friends and things like alcohol, cigarettes and other drugs. That's a part of growing up. Stay close, be involved. And remember, we can still be the closest and strongest influence in the lives of our kids. And the new boyfriend? He's probably got parents too.

Financial counselling program set up

A new financial counselling program is now available through my office. This program is meant for farmers who would like to analyze and review their farm business in detail. Each region has hired consultants with both farm production and financial background to supplement regular departmental services.

The consultants in this program will work with farmers on an individual and confidential basis. They will assist them to analyze their present situation so that they can review workable options and develop an operating plan and cashflow for the coming year. The consultant will assist the farmer in evaluating alternatives but the farmer will make the final decision to the alternatives to implement. The farmers will work with the consultants at their farms or at a mutually convenient location.

If you are interested in the program, come in and we will discuss it further. If you wish, I will then contact the program co-ordinator for our region to assign a consultant to work with you on your type of farm operation.

One of the secrets to farming under adverse conditions is to keep and monitor your financial position. Alberta Agriculture's Farm Business Management Branch has developed a package to help farmers diagnose the current financial strength of their farm business.

The D.A. Column
by Doug Walkey

The package contains two worksheets. The first provides an organized way to gather the necessary information to prepare a net worth statement and balance sheet. The second worksheet re-organizes the information on a farm tax return to determine true cash income, net farm income and debt servicing ability.

The package also contains four articles which explain the use of the worksheets. Where necessary, examples are used to illustrate key concepts. The package comes complete with a set of cards for lenders to fill out and give the farmer details on the current status of each loan.

DHE to start early April

After her training and her apprenticeship, Bev Brooks is ready for a new challenge — namely Drayton Valley.

Currently the District Home Economist (DHE) at Evansburg, Brooks will join the Alberta Agriculture office here starting early April replacing Janice McGregor.

"I'm looking forward to working in a larger community and I think at this point in time, I'm ready for a new and bigger challenge," the soft-spoken Brooks said. "Each community is different and I think I've come to know Evansburg very well."

"I've really enjoyed it here; I think it was great."

After graduating from the University of Alberta and a brief stay at Sedgewick as a DHE, Brooks was transferred to her first full-time posting at Evansburg in 1981.

Born in Lethbridge, Brooks moved to the Spirit River area and farmed with her family until she attended university.

As a DHE, "I encourage people to come to me, but I don't wait for them," she says. "I make contact with key people in the country and ask what they expect from their District Home Economist."

Because of the changes in the farm industry, a DHE has also had to change and become more involved with the financial and time management, Brooks said.

"It (the DHE) used to be a real traditional role as far as homemaking goes, but now it's really changed as farmwives have become more involved with a farm's operation — bookkeeping, management."

Attending university was only a start, she says.

District Home Economist Bev Brooks.

"I didn't have time with an experienced DHE" before taking the Evansburg post, "so I had to learn things fast. I've learned everything about home economists here. University was not enough."

The expected replacement for Brooks in Evansburg is Chris Murphy, currently the DHE in Valleyview.

In Memoriam

MALIN, Norma
In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away March 12, 1985.
In tears we saw you sinking, we watched you fade away
Our hearts were almost broken, you fought so hard to stay.
When we saw you sleeping, so peaceful, free from pain,
We could not wish you back, to suffer that again.
Ever remembered and sadly missed by Heather, Laura & Jack.
2.12

JORDON, Ken
In loving memory of Ken Jordon who passed away April 1, 1983 at the age of 27 years. Twice since you've gone, the seasons have changed. But my love for you remains the same.
I do not stand at your grave and weep.
I hear your voice in the winds that blow.
I see your eyes in the glints on the snow.
I feel your breath in the soft spring breeze.
I hear your laughter in the rustling leaves.
And though through the seasons I am with another,
In my heart there will never be any other.
I do not stand at your grave and cry.
You are not there. You're never far.
And when my days on this earth are through,
I'll have more to be with you.
We'll meet at the gates of the promised land.
And walk together eternally, hand in hand.
Always remembered, sadly missed by Laura and Billy-Joe. 1.12

Reckell's devilish Brady is soap's hottest hunk

By Peter Meade

Peter Reckell

It's amazing what long hair and a beard can do for someone's acting career. For Peter Reckell, 28, it took him out of the overpopulated ranks of being "just another boring All-American boy" and turned him into the devilish Bo Brady of "Days of Our Lives."

Reckell's current status as the hottest hunk on daytime television does have its drawbacks. While most soap stars enjoy a sometimes leisurely work schedule, the Serpico-esque actor puts in almost as many hours as the star of a weekly hourlong series. Twelve-hour days at the studio are commonplace for the Lansing, Mich., native. His character is so popular that he tends to monopolize the soap's daily story line.

But there is more to Reckell's climb to the top of the soap world than his shaggy appearance. "The transition to long hair and a beard not only changed my career, but my life," explains Reckell. "I used to do things to please people, thinking that to work I had to look and act a certain way. Then when I wasn't getting work, I figured why not do what I want to do?"

After 21 months of playing short-haired goody-goody Eric Hollister on "As the World Turns," Reckell joined "Days of Our Lives" last May. He has since been voted the most popular male on daytime TV by the genre's fiercely loyal fans. But the soft-spoken actor admits that he is not like Brady.

Sure the hair and the beard can't come off when I'm not Bo, but the tattoo and the leather jacket aren't me," Reckell says. "I have a separate self." "Bo is outgoing but obvious and doesn't get along with everybody. I have a good time playing him because of the variety. I never know what will happen with him. But by being so unpredictable he has helped me come out of my shell because of the attention the show has brought to me," he says.

Reckell also hopes to get the attention of movie producers. Although he has a year remaining on his "Days" contract, he admits he's already looking ahead. "Bo is just a character," says Reckell. "And I want to keep him that way. There are plenty of others I can play."
